Averill Family

Army of the Republic; and Loyal Legion, not to mention other organizations. He was a man of strict and unswerving integrity in public as in private life, and faithful in all his relationships,—family, social, or civic. Like many Maine men, he was a warm friend and political supporter of Mr. Blaine, and he was greatly disappointed when he failed to receive the nomination for president at Cincinnati in 1876. But for himself, after he left Congress, he steadfastly refused to be a candidate for other high offices, and from that time devoted himself to business.

At the time of his death, the press of his city and state mentioned him with great honor, dwelling on his high character as well as his ability and the services he had rendered his state and country.

Gen. Averill left a very interesting family of daughters, who are widely known for their attractive qualities.

The children of John T. and Hannah Elizabeth (Atkinson) Averill were:

2129. i. Emma Clara[8], b. Oct. 16, 1852, at Winthrop, Me.; m. Hon. Wm. H. Stowell.

2130. ii. Mary Ellen[8], b. Oct. 9, 1855, at Tioga, Pa.; m. Nov. 1, 1882, at St. Paul, Minn., Charles Mutler Drake, M. D., son of Charles M. Drake of Knoxville, Tenn. She d. Apr. 22, 1887, at Knoxville.

2131. iii. Anna May[8], b. Nov. 21, 1859, at Lake City, Minn.; m. Dec. 17, 1890, at St. Paul, Minn., Edwin James Jaggard.

1069. Mary Stewart[7] Averell (James[6], John[5], Job[4], Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Sept. 22, 1822, at Alna, Me.; lived at Lynn., Mass., 1855-67; at Winchester, Mass., 1867-73; at Chicago, Ill., 1873-93. She m. Sept. 27, 1847, at Chicago, Capt. 1070. Capt. Albert James[7] Averell (James 2nd[6], John[5], Job[4], Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Mar. 20, 1824, at Alna, Me., was first a salt water sailor, under his father, Capt. James Averell, a prosperous ship-builder of Maine; then Captain of the steamship Independence, the first steamship to enter the fresh waters of Lake Superior. It was soon after he settled at Chicago that he first took this same ship across from Chicago to the South and across the portage. It was transferred on rollers around the Sault Ste. Marie by men and teams, in the year 1843. In 1848 he was tempted to go to California, and crossed the Isthmus of Panama to reach that land of promise. He accepted the captaincy of the clipper-schooner, Eclipse, sailing between San Francisco and Sacramento. In 1850 he commanded the McKim, the first steamer in those waters; and in 1851 the New World, a much finer steamer on the same route. July 4, 1852, he was m. at Wiscasset, Me., near his old ancestral town, to Anna Butler Foote (dau. of Erastus Foote of Wiscasset, and Eliza Carleton, his wife), b. Oct. 8, 1827, at Wiscasset. Mrs. Averell accompanied her husband on his return to California. Soon after his arrival he took command of the Senator, the largest and finest steamer which had ever been on the Sacramento River. In 1855 he gave up maritime life and settled at Chicago, with which place he was identified until his death. He engaged first in the lumber business, and later in real estate. He was connected with nearly all the big real estate transfers made in Chicago up to ten years before his death, and he availed himself of his well earned leisure to travel extensively with Mrs. Averell both at home and abroad. Capt. Averell was a resident of Chicago for nearly fifty years, and was a valued citizen of the town in whose marvellous development he had taken an active part. He was a man of rare character, untiring energy, inexhaustible resources, and noted for his integrity and fidelity in all relationships, domestic, social, financial and civic. An unusually commanding presence, with great dignity of manner made him seem somewhat severe at times, but in reality he was very gentle and courteous. His death, Sept. 6, 1896, at his residence on Michigan Ave., where the family had lived for some years, was a distinct loss to the great city, and tributes from the press and friends attested the value of his life and influence in the community. Many of the foregoing statements are extracts from such articles which friends and relations endorsed as just tributes to a noble life. His widow, Mrs. Averell, still resides in the old home, and in quiet and unostentatious ways fills an enviable position; she gives generously to many good causes, and has recently endowed a ward of ten free beds in the Presbyterian Hospital of Chicago, in memory of her late husband. Mr. and Mrs. Averell had but one child.

Mr. Avery was known for miles around as "Squire Avery" —this popular New England title of "Squire" being instinctively granted to men who were especially honored or influential in a community. Mr. and Mrs. Avery were an unusually interesting and lovable couple, with generous and fine natures, fond of people, and most charitable in spirit. Their home was a center for their neighbors and relatives, their hospitality, personality, and unusual musical gifts being great attractions. Mr. Avery built quite early after his marriage a simple and unpretentious granite house with stone from his own quarry. Here some, or all, of his children were born and raised, so that they all have beautiful memories of the "old granite mansion" and happy hours within it. It stands on the West bank of the Penobscot River, with Bucksport visible from its doors, and is one of the interesting objects seen from the river. It was here that Mr. and Mrs. Avery died, he, Oct. 31, 1886, and she, Dec. 3, 1894. Their son Mr. George Alden Avery now occupies the old homestead, and all their children are living (1906).

Oct. 12, 1817, at Jefferson, Me., was the son of devout parents who were ardent Baptists. The result of this influence on his plastic young mind was that of a spirit of great reverence which never left him. The early death of his father left his beloved mother to face alone the care of a large family with very limited means. So this son at the age of fourteen started to earn his own living and to help her.

selfishness, and against many temptations. He followed rapidly in the path his ancestors had trod for four generations—the life of a lumberman and lumber manufacturer.

At twenty-six years of age, having obtained sufficient means to establish a home of his own, he was m. Jan. 3, 1843, by Horace Blackman, Justice of the Peace, to Nancy Clapp Eddy (dau. of Ware Eddy of Mansfield, Mass., and Eddington, Me., and Nancy Clapp of Walpole, Mass.), b. Dec. 22, 1824, at Eddington, a town named in honor of her great-grandfather. (See Eddy Gen.)

They lived for a time at Bradley, Me., where he built a pretty little house that is still standing, near the small stream by which stood the mill in which he was interested. This house faced the Penobscot.

At this time Mr. Avery was a man of unusual physical and mental vigor. He was six feet in height, erect, supple, with a fair skin, ruddy cheeks and very light hair which scarcely changed with the passing of the years. His eyes were very pure blue, bright, keen and merry,—eyes such as are found in many widely separated members of the stock. He could lift and throw great weights, or even men, with remarkable ease, and his wrestling and jumping were the delight of his young men friends who recalled them with admiration in old age. But he had also exceptional mental powers; a retentive memory, almost unfailing even in small details; keen perceptive and analytical powers and a direct, simple and logical mind. With all this he was quiet, unpretending and modest in dress and manner, and almost unconsciously self-depreciating.

He was the owner of pine lands and rented mills before his marriage, and by 1849 had so increased his capital that he had a fourth interest in the firm of his brother-in-law, Col. Jonathan Eddy of Bangor,—called "Eddy and Murphy", later "Eddy, Avery, and Murphy". The firm became one of the best known and most successful in the United States, and was only dissolved by death. With other partners other firm names were used, "Avery, Murphy & Co." in Chicago, "Eddy Avery & Eddy" in Bay City, Mich., etc.

Their possessions of white pine land in Michigan caused his removal to Port Huron, Mich., in the May of 1853, for the supervision of their Michigan interests.

The death of Col. Eddy, Aug., 1864, and changes in lumbering conditions in Maine, caused the other member of the firm, Mr. Simon A. Murphy, to take up his residence in Detroit, Mich., in 1866, and Mr. Avery settled there in 1867, his residence being at the corner of Fort and Third Streets, the former being then one of the most beautiful streets in the Middle West; Mr. Murphy's house was at the corner of Fourth Street.

Mr. Avery is said to have had "a marvellously accurate judgment of human nature and a Napoleonic capacity for binding men to his service."

It was at his suggestion that, very early in their western business, each of their ablest subordinates was given a share of the profits of the particular enterprise in which he was engaged; and many able business men were trained in their service. One of them, now one of the most prominent business men in Michigan and California, said very recently: "Newell Avery was the noblest man I have ever known; many others who knew him thought the same." Another when asked why he had so many life long friends, said it was not due to his superior judgment, his financial successes, or to his influence with others, which was very great, but to his kind and sympathetic heart; that he had a tender cord that few men can preserve who have to struggle through the world; and that he was also an eminently true man, to be relied on in all emergencies. He had a ready wit and keen sense of humor which made him a pleasant companion in his hours of leisure, which, however, were not many.

Mr. Avery was one of the organizers of the Republican party under the Oaks at Jackson, Mich., July 6, 1854. In those ante bellum days such a step demanded independence of judgment and the courage of one's convictions. It was a case of "insurgents" or "progressives" separating from the old party of Whigs and others in a spirit of high resolve for humanity and the good of the country. The history of this party is on record, but we quote a few items from one of its many historians. "Michigan was the first state to take formal action in the way of organized effort. Early in June, 1854, what was known as the Free Soil party held a convention and nominated Kingsley S. Bingham for Governor, but the platform adopted was hardly broad enough to meet the endorsement of many Whigs and Free Soil Democrats, and so a call was issued—signed by thousands in every part of the state—inviting all opposed to the further extension of slavery into new territory, without distinction of former political affiliations, to assemble in convention at Jackson, July 6, 1854".

"On the morning of that day there gathered at Jackson—Whigs, Democrats, Abolitionists and Free Soilers, in such numbers that it became apparent no building could be found large enough to contain them, a temporary meeting however was held. Dr. McNaughton read the call, Judge Baxter was called to the Chair, S. A. Baker was chosen Secretary, and the meeting adjourned to the Oak Grove, where the proceedings were continued in about the following order:

"1st The call and the list of names attached was read, each signer present being requested to respond as his name was read.

"2nd. On motion—the Chair appointed the following as a committee on permanent organization—Samuel Barstow of Wayne (Co.), I. P. Christiancy of Monroe, George Burchard of Hillsdale, Lovell Moore of Kent, James W. Hill of Calhoun, Henry W. Lord of Oakland, and Newell Avery of St. Clair (Co.).

"3d. On motion. a committee on resolutions was chosen of which Jacob M. Howard of Wayne was chairman

"The committee on resolutions presented their report:—As it was well known that this committee was to provide for the creation of a new party, much discussion was had in the committee as to what it should be called, but finally it was left for the Convention to decide. Meanwhile Mr. Howard was requested to telegraph Horace Greely for suggestion of name.

"While the question of name was being somewhat warmly discussed, Mr. Howard asked permission to read a dispatch just rec'd from Horace Greely. Being granted his request, he read the following:—'New York, July 6 P. M. Name the new party plain Republican. H. Greely.'

"One universal shout of approval went from that vast assemblage—the great Republican party was born—and before the adjournment of the Convention congratulations were received from all parts of the North."

From that time Mr. Avery was an active influence in the political life of Michigan, and his assistance and counsel were much sought after by Maine and Michigan statesmen. He was delegate to some of the National Republican Conventions, and was also constantly urged to let his name be presented for the highest honors the state could confer. But he was very self-depreciating, his business cares were great, and he steadily refused to yield to all such solicitations.

After suffering for about a year from what seemed an obcure trouble Mr. Avery died at his residence on Fort St., March 13, 1877. The interment was at Woodmere Cemetery in the family lot. His death was regarded as a great loss to the community.

Mrs. Avery was left with a large family, only two of whom were married. Her husband's confidence in her wisdom was amply justified in the years that followed, as she was instinctively business-like and just, and always tolerant. The division of many interests was made without recourse to law, to her great satisfaction.

A much younger but devoted personal friend familiar with her life history wrote of Mrs. Avery as follows: "Madam Avery was a woman of strong and unique personality and filled a large place in the towns where she lived. She had a wide acquaintance and much influence; and at the time of the great fires of Michigan and of Chicago, it was she who helped to meet the appalling situation with a quick and practical decision and with thorough arrangement of the work of relief in her own state.

"She was generous and unstinted in her service to the poor, sick and sorrowing, to her friends, to her church, and to the various organizations in which she was actively interested.

"Her strong common sense, her executive ability, her clear-cut honesty of spirit, her shrewd insight, her sense of justice, were qualities which made her associates lean on her. Modest and absolutely without pretense, she was fearless in the face of difficulty.

"A New Englander, descended from many lines of early settlers in New England (John and Priscilla Alden; the Adams family of Quincy; the Fairbanks of Dedham, etc.), she was naturally a notable house-wife and keen thinker.

"The flavor of her native state was in her colloquialisms and sincere manner, making her interesting to the last. Loyal to her friends, hosts of friends were bound to her, and sought to brighten her last wearisome years of feebleness."

Monday, Jan. 3, 1897, when 62 years of age she wrote: "This is the anniversary of my marriage day. Forty-four years ago this afternoon at three o'clock I was married . . . . ; as I think back I scarcely know myself, the changes have been so great. The years have brought much of trial and sorrow and hardship and very much of pleasure. I would not like to risk myself again in the Battle, although I regret so much of the past that with the experience of these years I could have improved on. And with the health of the past ten or twelve years I see with such different eyes, that I know health does give one a clearer vision for things of this world."

She lived to the great age of over eighty-six years, retaining to the last a spirit of energy and helpfulness in spite of a weak body. Her brave spirit is an inspiration to all who knew her.

Feb. 2, 1824, at Jefferson, Lincoln Co., Me., was a successful business man in the line followed by his ancestors for three generations—that of the lumbering business. He was a large forest owner in connection with his business and also took great pleasure in a farm which he owned. He left his native town while still a youth to associate himself with his older brother, Mr. Newell Avery in his Maine lumbering enterprises, and he followed him later to Michigan. He m. at Bradley, Me., May 3, 1849, Eliza Holland Eddy, a younger sister of his brother Newell's wife, and dau. of Ware Eddy of Eddington, Me., and Nancy Clapp, his wife (see Eddy and Clapp Genealogies). She was b. at Eddington, at the old Eddy homestead, Feb. 27, 1827, and was left motherless when very young. Mrs. Avery was a very interesting woman, with a bright cheerful spirit, a keen and unfailing wit, and the marvellous energy and sense of duty that seemed the inheritance of most of her father's family. Wherever she was her home became the center of enjoyment for relatives and friends. This family removed to Port Huron, Mich., in the Spring of 1856; and in Nov., 1865, they removed to E. Saginaw, Mich., where they afterward resided. Mr. Avery was one of the pioneer lumbermen of that section of the state, and a much respected citizen in that locality. He was the "Avery" in the firm of Eddy, Avery and Co., one of the best known and most honored firms in the Saginaw Valley. He was associated with Mr. Edwin Eddy, his wife's brother-in-law, his own brother Mr. Newell Avery, and Mr. Simon J. Murphy, in large mills which were at Bay City, Mich. In 1885 he withdrew from the firm and continued his various interests alone. He was vice-president and a director of the Second National Bank of Saginaw from Jan. 2, 1882, until Jan. 1, 1894; a director of the Tittabawassee Boom Co., the Huron Log Booming Co., and other companies and organizations. Mr. Avery was b. into a musical family, and he and his children were fond of music, some of them being excellent amateur singers and pianists. Music was always a pleasure to him and one of the attractions of their family life. After some years of serious illness Mr. Avery d. at Flint, Mich., Jan. 2, 1898, four years after the death of Mrs. Avery at Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 18, 1894. Both interments were in the family grounds at Forest Lawn Cemetery at Saginaw.

Mrs. Ewen, Mrs. Morley, Mrs. Sanborn, Mrs. Mumford,

He m. Harriet Brown (dau. of Robert Brown and Tamor Brown (?), his wife), and they are now living at Harmony, Me., with their son Wilbra Avery (1906). The spirit of unity shown by family reunions of the descendants of the family of Israel (No. 489) is worthy of emulation. We have few records of this line; but one or two deeds show some places of residence. Israel Avery of St. Albans sells three pieces of Lot No. 18, in St. Albans to Jacob Raymond, June 19, 1857. Israel Avery, Jr. and wife Harriet sell to Seth Avery, May 8, 1874, part of the land originally held by Israel Avery Sr. (six acres of Lot No. 18 - R - 6) - Quit Claim deed. Vol. 177, p. 23. Both of St. Albans.

Mr. Israel Avery, the fourth lineal Israel, was in good mental and physical condition at the advanced age of 87 years. Aug. 9, 1906, he wrote the compiler of this genealogy a long letter full of explanations and details about his line since the death of Israel[4] Averell. Very few at his age could be so clear and correct in statements covering so long a lifetime. At the advanced age of 93 (1912), his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Wilbra Avery, writes that he is a dear old man.

with him. He d. Jan. 7, 1903, at Stoughton, Mass., at the residence of his dau. Mrs. Caroline Augusta Marden, wife of Judge Oscar A. Marden of Stoughton. His interment was in the family grounds at N. Whitefield Cemetery, and his sister, Mrs. Julia L. Marden, nearly 80 yrs. of age, came from her home in Somerville, Mass., to attend the services, Jan. 10. He had almost reached the age of 85 yrs., and his sterling qualities—industry, gentleness, benevolence, honor and justice—had endeared him to all associated with him, so that the tributes to his memory were such as make one proud that he was of our great Averell-Averill-Avery stock. An aged relative and neighbor, Mr. John D. Sinnott, said of him: "He was a good man. He had no enemies." The death of Mr. Avery's only son in 1900 was a great blow and undoubtedly hastened the father's death.

Children:

2337. i. JOHN EDWARD[8], b. Nov. 11, 1848, at Whitefield; was educated at the public schools of Maine, Kent's Hill Seminary, Readfield, Me., and was grad. from Harvard University (Law) with degree of LL.B., in 1871. His law studies were commenced in the office of Hon. William P. Whitehouse at Augusta, Me. After his graduation he was admitted to the Suffolk (Mass.) Bar, and commenced practice in Charlestown, Mass., in partnership with Henry A. Walker. Later he formed a partnership with Erdix T. Swift of Charlestown, which connection continued until 1880, when he became general business manager of the publishing house of the late E. C. Allen, at Augusta, Me. In 1890 he returned to Boston and resumed the practice of law. For the four years preceding his death he was a partner of Charles B. Stone of West Acton, with an office on Tremont St. He was a Mason—Past Grand Captain General of the Grand Commandery of Maine (etc., etc.). He enjoyed the friendship and high esteem of a wide circle of acquaintances. Boston Morning Journal, Feb. 27, 1903. Mr. Avery's death was particularly sad, for while in perfect health, with every promise of continued business success, he was run over by a carriage on Tremont St., Feb. 22, 1900, and d. at the City Hospital, Feb. 24, 1900. The interment was in the Cem. at N. Whitefield, in the family grounds.

Failure.

(For the Transcript.)

"Faint not at failure. Sometimes 'tis the will
Of the high gods, that by this means is given
The key to life, the very road to Heaven,
The greater good sprung from the greater ill.
I often ponder on the men who still
Within the shadow of the mountain pass,
Stood—falling bravely one by one, alas—
And at the name of Sparta make us thrill
To-day, when all her temples lie in dust.
Yet this was failure, and the Persian throng
Poured o'er those forms that kept so well their trust,
And when we highly praise their deeds in song,
We sing of failure; but of failure when
They did their best, and fought and died like men."

Edgar Avery Marden.

Lincoln at Gettysburg.

(For the Transcript.)

"Living and dead: O'er all a summer sky;
A silence as of mountains and the sea;
Broken at length by one long-lingering sigh,
Tribute to him who spoke immortally."

1298. Brevet Major-General William Woods[7] Averell (Hiram[6], Ebenezer[5], Solomon[4], Thomas[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Nov. 5, 1832, at Cameron, Steuben Co., N. Y., was appointed to the West Point Military Academy in 1851, and four years later, 1855, was graduated from it with honor. He was commissioned lieutenant in the U. S. mounted Rifles and served at the frontier with distinction in the Wars against the Indians in 1857-8. He was Captain of the body guard at President Lincoln's first inauguration, and a little later was sent by Gen. Winfield Scott on a secret mission to Fort Smith, Texas. The hardships of this trip were so great that he never fully recovered his previous strength. In the first battle of Bull Run he was Adjutant-General of Col. Andrew Porter's brigade; and soon after he was appointed Colonel of the Third Pennsylvania Cavalry. Sept., 1861, he was given command of the first brigade of cavalry organized during the War, of which he was the head during the campaign of the Peninsular, 1862; then he was given the command of a division of cavalry. He was one of the most conspicuous cavalry leaders on the Union side during the Civil War. In 1862 he was appointed Brigadier-General, serving with distinction in the Army of the Potomac, in West Virginia, and in the campaign of Sheridan. He was six times brevetted for gallantry in particular action. At the time of his retirement from service he held the rank of Brevet Major-General of the Regular Army. After the War he held important positions. He was U. S. Consul-General to British North America 1866-69, residing at Montreal, and afterwards he was Assistant Inspector-General for the Board of Managers of National and State Homes for disabled Veterans of the Army and Navy. He was m. Sept. 24, 1885, at Bath, N. Y., to Kezia Hayward, who survived her husband. They had no children. General Averell was very original and inventive and the honor of inventing the asphalt pavements, now found so generally in our large cities, is assigned to him. Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington is a beautiful specimen of the work done by the company in which he as its inventor was interested.

He was very companionable, with a keen sense of humor, and an inexhaustible fund of anecdotes, and was both a broad minded and generous citizen. In politics he was a Democrat. He d. Feb. 3, 1900, at the Hornellsville Sanitarium and his remains were brought to Bath and buried with military honors, Feb. 5; the services being held at St. Thomas' Church.

1406. William Henry[7] Averill (Marvin[6], Jesse[5], Joseph[4], Paul[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Sept. 29, 1834, at Louisville, Ky., was a wholesale and retail druggist, and lived at Frankfort, Ky. He m. Nov. 7, 1860, at Frankfort, Jane Julian Page, dau. of Thomas S. Page of Frankfort, Ky., and Jane Briggs Julian, his wife. She was b. Jan. 19, 1838, at Frankfort, where her parents had lived many years.

Like many of their associates Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Averill were the children of pioneers in Kentucky,—people who settled that part of the Western Territory when it was really a wilderness. The privations and stern realities of their early years, under the influence of a dominating religious faith devoloped in them great patience, fortitude and fidelity to duty; created simple tastes, and awoke worthy ambitions.

The early life of Dr. Averill was very simple and wholesome. When he was only five years of age his father died at Louisville, and his mother took her family of young children to Farmdale in Franklin Co., Ky., to occupy the old Paxton Homestead, which she had inherited from her father, Thomas Paxton, who had received the land as a grant for services in the Continental Army during the American Revolution. In those quiet surroundings the children received their impressions of nature and humanity, and there they obtained their early education. In due time William Henry Averill was sent first to the Transylvania University of Pisgah, then to the Kentucky Military Institute, and last to the Academy of a celebrated educator of that period, Hon. B. B. Sayre, whose pupils are numbered among the governors, senators and presidents of our United States. A good foundation was thus laid for a life which, however simple and unpretentious, became one of real value. A course of pharmacy followed; and in 1854, with a fellow-student, Charles Kearns, now a surgeon of Covington, Ky., he opened a dispensary in Frankfort. This venture was so successful that in 1856 he enlarged his business, becoming a wholesale and retail druggist, and removed to the well-known site which he occupied for nearly a half century, until his death in 1904,—a site still occupied by his sons who became his associates and continue his business.

Dr. Averill was the first president of the Kentucky Association of Druggists, and became vice-president of the National Association. He was regarded not only as a good citizen, but one possessed of rare judgment and foresight and his counsel was often sought in important affairs. His manner was so simple and unobtrusive that only his intimate friends knew how cultivated were his tastes, and how wide the range of his general information. It is said that his great passion was music,—a noticeable trait in our stock,—and that he found deep enjoyment and solace in the music of our best masters.

The parents of Dr. Averill, with ten others, organized the Second Presbyterian Church of Louisville, and he became an elder in the First Presbyterian Church of Frankfort; was also Clerk of the Sessions for many years, and many years a member of the church choir.

Some one has aptly said: "A man's spiritual gain is no man's loss"; but in the case of William Averill it may be added that his gain was profitable to all associated with him.

Mrs. Averill was a woman of unusually fine character and high ideals, so that their home—in the old Page House, which she inherited from her parents—became an attractive center for the family and its many friends. By her death at Frankfort, Dec. 19, 1882, after twenty-two years of wedded life, a great break came to the family circle. Fortunately their only daughter, Miss Rebecca Gordon Averill, was able to assume the responsibilities of homekeeper and act as a mother for her young brothers; while to her father she became the consolation of his later years, his constant companion and sympathetic comrade, accompanying him on his journeys and to his many meetings within and without the state, and sharing with him his enjoyment of books, music and nature.

As Mr. Averill's sons married they brought their brides to the old home, lightened the burdens of their father, gave him the delight of grandchildren and young life within the doors. With leisure he was able to enjoy and do many things. He wrote a history of the First Presbyterian Church of Frankfort; found time to travel, and became interested in his ancestors, of whom he gathered quite extensive data, which he generously gave to the compiler of this history. He also was in close sympathy with his daughter's many activities in church, club, philanthropic and civic work.

Mr. Averill's death occurred at Frankfort, May 21, 1904, and was a distinct loss to the community.

The burial lot of the family is in the beautiful Protestant cemetery of Frankfort, and there a granite monument marks the resting place of himself and his devoted wife.

Three of their children survive them and uphold the traditions of the name they inherit.

The children of William Henry[7] and Jane (Page) Averill were:

Children (all b. at Frankfort):

2645. i. Rebecca Gordon[8], b. Jan. 18, 1862.
2646. ii. Thomas Page[8], b. Feb. 15, 1865; m. Mary Jacob Nash.
2647. iii. Marvin Dennison 2nd[8], b. Dec. 30, 1869; m. Stella R. Van Arsdell.

Jan. 23, 1869, at Clifton, Ky., Emma Berryman (dau. of Robert Berryman of Clifton, and Maria Whittington, his wife), b. 1850, at Clifton. Mr. Averill lived at the Paxton homestead, at Farmdale, where he accidentally shot himself May 20, 1890, while shooting crows in his own woods. The top rail broke as he was climbing a fence and the hammer of his gun struck the rail, killing him instantly. The farm on which he lived was part of the tract originally settled in 1792 by his grandfather, Thomas Paxton, who was a soldier in the Continental Army, and who, with his father and brother, was at the surrender of Cornwallis. All associations with this spot are very precious to this Averill family. Mr. Averill was a ruling elder of the Presbyterian Church, a devoted Christian, and a citizen much respected and admired for his integrity and uprightness. His loss was deeply felt by the community, in which he stood for all that was good and true. He was a member of the Masonic Fraternity, belonging to the Hiram Lodge, No. 4, and Frankfort Commandery, No. 4, K. T.

1420. Phineas Barnes[7] Averill (Perry[6], Perry[5], Samuel[4], Isaac[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Aug. 31, 1809, at S. Britain, Conn., was a farmer in his native town. He m. Oct. 4, 1822, at S. Britain, Eliza Maria Wheeler (dau. of Samuel Wheeler of S. Britain and Orra Hinman, his wife), b. Feb. 12, 1812, and d. July 5, 1905, at S. Britain, aged 93 yrs. and nearly five mos., having survived her husband over twenty-six years. She was a good representative of the noble country-women of her day, being essentially the help-meet, ready and willing to share her husband's burdens at any time; she was faithful to her own duties as wife, mother and housekeeper, a help to neighbors around her, and independent in judgment and in deed. It is said that a deacon having remonstrated with her for irregular attendance at church, she explained that the reason for her absence was the cares of the household and that, if he thought he could run her family affairs better than she, he might come and try it. The deacon did not come! She was a woman of large physique, noble presence and character, her face indicating her fine qualities of heart and mind. Mr. Averill was a man of positive convictions, one of the original abolitionists of Connecticut, a strong advocate of temperance, and olthough recognized as a good citizen was much under criticism for his views. He and his family were Congregationalists in faith, and Whigs or Republicans in politics. He and the men of his own family were not like his grandfather Perry in physique, all being shorter and much more slender. Mr. Averill d. Dec. 31, 1878, at S. Britain. The family burial lot is in the Hill (or "lower") cemetery, in the valley of their native town.

Mr. Averill became deeply interested in his family history, and gathered data for many years, obtaining all that had been collected by Mr. Horace Averill and Mr. Augustin Averill, and having the assistance of the able genealogist, Rev. G. O. Jameson, compiler of The Cogswells in America and The Choats in America. The data gathered by Mr. Jameson was called: The Averills in America, and was sent by him Dec. 4, 1885, to Mr. Averill. All of that data has been given to the compiler of the present history of the family, by Hon. Heman Otis Averill, son of Samuel J. Averill. Mr. Averill also prepared from his data the Averill records which appeared in Cothren's Ancient Woodbury. So far as we know these were the first extensive records of our family that were ever published. Mr. Averill was a good student in his youth, both in school and academy; and by careful reading of the best literature at his command, and by deep interest in the events of his time, he obtained a good practical education. He was ambitious in many ways and a man of unusually liberal views. The Averill homestead was scientifically developed by him and his son, and he is said to have been the first one to bring a successful mowing machine into the county. This he bought for his farm, Aug., 1853. Under the management of father and son their well known farm has become a practical proof of the great grass producing capacity of Litchfield County hills, and of their value in the raising of stock and dairy produce. Abundant supplies are sent from this farm to the New York City markets by special local trains; and these trains are of great interest to strangers unfamiliar with the demands that our great metropolis makes on the surrounding country miles on miles from its center.

Mr. Averill was one of the Representatives from the Town of Washington to the State Legislature of Connecticut, in 1856; a deacon in the New Preston Congregational Church, and an active Christian and temperance worker in the vicinity of his town. He had the courage of his convictions, and, while holding slack allegiance to human creeds and dogmas, considered it the duty of every one to render obedience to all good laws and to fulfil all the deeper obligations as far as possible toward God and man. He co-operated in the formation of the Republican party, and always worked with it and sympathized with its principles.

1449. Harriet[7] Averill (Nathaniel[6], Samuel[5], Samuel[4], Isaac[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Dec. 9, 1793, at Washington, Conn., was m. Oct. 26, 1831, at Salisbury (T. R.), by Leonard E. Lathrop, to Daniel[5] Brewster, b. Mar. 16, 1780, at Preston, Conn. He was the son of John[4] Brewster, of Daniel[3], of Benjamin[2], of William[1] Brewster, one of the Mayflower Pilgrims, and who was called "their reverend Elder" and was b. prob. at Scrooby, Nottinghamshire, Eng., 1566 or '67, and d. at Plymouth, Mass., Apr. 10, or 18, 1644 (see The Gen. Soc. of Mayflower Descendants, pub. 1901, pp. 402-3). Mrs. Harriet (Averill) Brewster was a woman of strong character and marked individuality, and great sense. She was well educated and a teacher (at Canaan, Suffield and New Marlborough) from her seventeenth year until her marriage. She inherited talents of a high order and used them for the welfare of others. As a mother of unusual excellence she is still mentioned with great praise by those who knew her. Mr. Brewster d. Dec. 29, 1835, at Salisbury, leaving her with two children, one of whom d. early, and to the other she devoted the best of her life. She d. at Danbury, Mar. 30, 1878, much mourned by a large circle of friends and relatives in whose lives she was an important factor.

1455. Hon. Roger[7] Averill (Nathaniel[6], Samuel[5], Samuel[4], Isaac[3], William[2], William[1], b. Aug. 13, 1809, at Salisbury, Conn.,* came of good New England stock, among whom were some of the earliest settlers of the State of Connecticut. As one of a family of seven children reared on a small farm, his education had to be, of course, mainly that of his own earnings. By the aid of a common school and a public library, by farming in summer and teaching in winter, he prepared for college under the guidance of his brother Chester, a professor at Union College (N. Y.), and was graduated from that College with honor in 1832. After studying law with Judge (afterward Chief Justice) Church in his native town, he was admitted to the Bar in 1837, and opened an office for practice, after teaching in the Academy for a short time. In 1849 he removed to Danbury and at once attained a wide and successful practice. Of fine personal appearance, with a ceremonious courtliness of the old school, a ready man of business, industrious by instinct, sound of judgment, and careful in advice . . . . he stood well in the ranks of his profession, to which he was greatly attached, and whose honor and welfare no one had more nearly at heart . . . . Conservative by nature, and apt to keep his own secrets well, he was open, candid and thorough in his dealings with his clients whose life long fealty he held when they realized the virtue of his wise and peace-loving counsels.

In public service he filled many functions, such as trustee of the State Normal School and member of the State Board of Education. He was a member of the Legislature, and presiding officer of the Senate; and was Lieutenant Governor of the State of Connecticut for four years,—with Governor Buckingham, from 1862 to 1866,—during the Civil War.

In the Spring of 1861 he was a prominent leader of the political party which opposed the election of President Lincoln, but the instant the news came of the assault on Fort Sumter, he hastened to fling his flag to the breeze, the first of his townsmen, and waiting for no man. Thenceforth he devoted himself enthusiastically to the success of the Union arms. A company from Danbury under Capt. Geo. M. Southmayd was called the "Averill Rifles", in honor of Hon. Roger Averill. After the War his participation in public affairs and the care of private trusts prevented devotion to strictly legal pursuits . , although his interest in everything tending to the welfare of his profession remained unabated.

He was one of the organizers of the American Bar Association, and an active participant in its proceedings up to the year of his death.

Mr. Averill was m. (1) Oct. 16, 1844, at Danbury, Conn., by Rev. Rollin S. Stone, pastor of the Congregational Church at Danbury, to Maria D. White, (dau. of Roswell White, a jeweller

MEMORANDA.

P. 675. Vermont Hist. Gazetteer. About June 1st 1813 the British appeared at St. Johns with an armed force, and were attacked by Lieut Smith, who was forced to strike his colors and give up his ships the Growler and Eagle. The Eagle was sunk, and later was raised by the British, and with the Growler was refitted and they made part of the British fleet at the battle of Plattsburg in Sept 1814, under the names of the Chub and Finch. The British light troops made several attempts in the course of the day (Sept. 5?) to cross at the village, but were repulsed by the guards at the bridge, and by the sharp fire of a company of volunteers who had taken possession of a stone grist-mill nearby. 45 Americans and 200 British were killed or wounded on this day. This company of volunteers was called "Aiken's Volunteers" and was composed of (17) young men—none of whom were old enough to be liable to perform military duty. Among them was Henry K. Averill and Hiram Walworth. They had been out on the Beekman road where they behaved with great gallantry. In May, 1826, Congress authorized the President to cause to be delivered to each One Rifle promised to them by General Macomb, while commanding the Champlain Department, for their gallantry and patriotic services as a Volunteer Corps, during the siege of Plattsburg in September 1814.

1481. Caleb Nichols[7] Averill (Nathan[6], Nathan[5], Daniel[4], Isaac[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Oct. 16, 1815, at Plattsburg Village, N. Y., was a merchant and farmer, and lived first at Plattsburg, afterward at Michigan City, Ind., Chattanooga, Tenn., and Charleston, S. C. He was for a time connected with the Port Royal and Augusta R. R., at Port Royal, S. C. He was in the Southern army during the Civil War. He purchased a small farm at Summerville, S. C., where he was interested in raising strawberries. He made his first return visit to Plattsburg with his granddaughter May Porter, Sept., 1896, when 81 years of age, and 45 years after his departure from his birthplace. He was even then tall and straight, with a commanding presence, a keen eye, his voice clear, his eye quick, and his step as elastic as when he went South. On that visit he played the same old flute that he had used for more than fifty years, and he played remarkably well, giving many delightful home concerts among his friends during his stay. He carried many burdens during his life, but through them all kept a cheerful countenance, and an unsullied name. He m. Dec. 31, 1838, at Michigan City, Ind., Sarah H. Sprague (dau. of David Sprague of New York State and Mary Hawley Woodruff, his wife), b. 1819, in New York State. She d. Aug. 9, 1890, at Charleston, S. C. He d. July 4, 1900, at Summerville, S. C. He was at the time of his death Senior Elder of the Second Presbyterian Church of Charleston, and July 22, 1900, his pastor, Rev. G. R. Brackett, D. D., gave a noble memorial address in his honor, in which he mentioned Mr. Averill's "noble manhood, habits of temperance, virtue and tranquillity of mind, his marvellous natural force until he had passed his fourscore years; his delightful memory and social sympathies, and freshness as of youth." There was not a faculty that did not yield him enjoyment and make life desirable to him. He went South in 1850, and came into sympathy with the cause of the Confederacy, offering to it his services. Being too old for active service, he was made a quartermaster, and also joined a body of Cavalry. He was a deacon of his Church twenty-one years, elected Elder 1888, and for thirty years active in Sunday School work as leader of the song service. He was a gifted musician and had a strong, mellow, well cultivated voice. He organized and conducted several Sunday Schools. It is said of him: "He was an Israelite indeed in whom was no guile." In no circle was his influence more prized and his personality more honored than in that of his own family.

Y., was an eminent counsellor-at-law in New York City, where he pursued his legal studies and was admitted to the bar, Feb., 1855. He attended the Sand Lake Academy, studied law two years with Messrs. David L. Seymour and Judge Jeremiah Romeyn, prominent lawyers of Troy, N. Y., studying meanwhile with private tutors. In 1852 he went to New York City and entered the office of Messrs. Horace F. Clark and Charles A. Rapallo, the latter of whom was Judge of the Court of Appeals (1881). He was two years with them and then served for one year as managing clerk for Dennis McMahon, Esq.

"He was only 21 years of age when admitted to the bar. In May, 1856, he became a partner with Messrs. E. & E. F. Brown, the firm name being Brown & Averill. This partnership was dissolved a year later and Mr. Averill formed a partnership with Judge Henry L. Hayner, who had been Chief Justice of Minnesota. This partnership lasted two years. He then continued the practice of law himself until 1869. In the meantime he was admitted to practise in the Circuit and District Courts of the State, and to the Supreme Court of the United States at Washington. In 1866, the year succeeding the close of the Civil War, Mr. Averill formed a large company known as the Averill Coal and Oil Company, for the development of some 5,000 acres of coal and oil lands in the Great Kanawha River in Putnam Co., West Virginia. The late Henry J. Raymond, then editor of the New York Times, was one of the trustees of the Company; the members of the well-known banking firm, Jerome Riggs & Co., were directors. Mr. Averill sold out his interest in this Company the same year. In 1869 he formed a law partnership with his brother, Mr. James Knox Averill, and a few months afterward, Mr. Thomas Allison joined the firm, which became well known as Averill, Allison and Averill. They did a tremendous law practice, having their offices first in the Gilsey Bldg., and later in the Equitable Insurance Bldg., where in 1870 they rented a large suite of rooms, which Mr. Averill occupied for many years. After 1872 he had no partner but it was stated in 1861 he had without doubt the largest practice of any lawyer in New York City . . . . . the average number of his cases before the courts being three hundred a year.

"Mr. Averill was an indefatigable worker, rarely leaving his office before 11 o'clock at night for five nights in the week. He owned a fine residence on East 76th St., and a valuable property of 500 acres on the borders of Sand Lake, ten miles east of Troy, on which there was a magnificent hotel called 'The Averill Park Hotel.' The Park was made a Post Office and named Averill Park, after the subject of this sketch. Mr. Averill was a Democrat in politics and interested himself in the politics of his ward, and the advancement of party interests, although he was not a politician. He was offered the nomination to high offices in the state and country but declined them all, on account of his profession." (The above extracts are from a biographical sketch in the New York Reporter, Sat., July 30, 1881.)

Mr. Averill was m. in 1865, to Permelia M. Diefendorf, only child of Mr. Peter Diefendorf of Fort Plain, Montgomery Co.,

iv. GEORGE W.[8] BURLING.

Elizabeth Susan[8] Burling (Cynthia[7] Averill, Horace[6], Moses[5], Moses[4], Isaac[3], William[2], William[1]), b. —— —, ——; m. (2nd w.) 1882, Rear Admiral William Thomas Sampson, b. Feb. 9, 1840, at Palmyra, N. Y. (son of James Sampson and Hannah Walker, his wife—both natives of the North of Ireland and of Scotch-Irish stock, but m. in this country). Admiral Sampson's career is among the most interesting of those known in the United States, in its revelation of the possibilities which our country offers for the development of its citizens. He was the son of a poor man—an honest, persistent laborer—and of a mother who had great ambitions for her family of eight, and tried to give them an education. Her son William is said to have resembled her very strongly; he certainly did in his ambition, for, when a little over 17, he was admitted to the Naval Academy at Annapolis.

The following record and estimate of his great services consists of extracts taken from the extended and carefully prepared article in the Boston Evening Transcript of Wednesday, May 7, 1902, which was issued the day after his death: "He entered the Naval Academy in September, 1857, and was graduated at the head of his class four years later. In July, 1862, he received a lieutenant's commission; was promoted to the rank of lieutenant commander in July, 1866; became a commander in October, 1874; reached the rank of captain on March 26, 1889; became commodore 1898; and rear admiral 1899.

He served during the Civil War as an officer in the Potomac flotilla, in the Gulf squadron, and in the monitor fleet at Charleston, S. C. He was among the survivors of the Patapsco when that vessel was blown up by a torpedo, and two-thirds of her men killed. His services in peace time comprised duty in the European squadrons twice, and in the home station, going in the Congress to Disco with relief stores for the party of Hall, the explorer. He was in charge of the Department of Physics and Chemistry at the Naval Academy from 1874 to 1878. His superior scientific attainments were also recognized in his last two years' service at the National Observatory, at Washington. He returned from service in Chinese waters in 1882, and was next on duty in charge of the torpedo station at Newport, R. I. In September, 1886, he was made superintendent of the Naval Academy at Annapolis. After four years' service in that important post, he was placed in command of the San Francisco, and subsequently served as inspector of ordnance at the Washington Navy Yard. In January, 1893, he was made chief of the Bureau of Ordnance. While in this service he ranked as an expert on ordnance and torpedoes; and with Lieutenant Strauss he devised and perfected the superimposed turret system. In June, 1897, after having completed the usual four years' detail, he was placed in command of the battleship Iowa. He was president of the Board of Inquiry which investigated the terrible disaster to the Maine in Havana harbor, Feb. 15, 1898. Shortly after the declaration of war with Spain he was made acting Rear Admiral and succeeded Rear Admiral Sicard as commander of the North Atlantic fleet. In that capacity he served throughout the War. Under his command the fleet voyaged to Porto Rico, and later bottled up the Spanish fleet in Santiago, whence after a long blockade Cervera came forth to his destruction, July 3, 1898. In September, 1898, he became one of the three commissioners to carry into effect the Spanish evacuation of Cuba under the terms of the treaty of Paris. Oct. 14, 1899, he was appointed to command the Boston Navy Yard and held that post until September, 1901, when he was relieved at his own request. His health had been seriously impaired for some time, and he spent the time until his retirement for age, Feb. 9, 1902, in a vain attempt to regain it."

One scarcely need say that time will but exalt the estimate of this noble citizen of our Republic; who worked and thought and suffered for her for forty years in unselfish devotion. Admiral Sampson is said to have been especially attractive in his own home-life in which his relations were unusually happy. (He was m., first, in 1863, to Margaret Seton Aldrich of Palmyra, N. Y. We give this first marriage because the dau. of his first wife m. a descendant of the Averills.)

Mr. Averill, at the age of sixteen, bought and paid for 80 acres of land with the aid of his trusty axe. He has held most of the offices in the gift of a township, and is a devoted member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He has a very retentive memory and a delightful appreciation of human nature and unusual descriptive powers for a man who has had little schooling and made his own way. He is a man of generous and unselfish nature. The compiler is greatly indebted to him for data of his branch of the family.

1993. Anna Boynton[8] Averill (George[7], John[6], Benjamin[5], Job[4], Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. at Alton, Me., Feb. 25, 1843, is the oldest of ten children, and the poet of our stock. She is not only a noble woman, but by those who know her well (and how successfully she has met many demands on her large heart, fine spirit and delicate body!) she is considered as brave as any famed warrior; and she is loved by them as only a fine woman can be. Her home is at Sunnyslope, a farm on the outskirts of Foxcroft, Me., commanding views that must delight a poet's nature. There she works and writes, and when possible allows herself to dream of the realization of great visions.

We are indebted to her for the dedication poem to our common ancestor, the first in America: William Averell. In Poems of Places, edited by Henry W. Longfellow, we find that he,—our loved and honored American poet,—gave place to Miss Anna Boynton Averill's beautiful poem called Birch Stream, Me. This is in the New England selections. It is also in Whittier's Songs of Three Centuries, and in the later edition of Bryant's Library of Poetry and Song. Among many other poems of note we would mention as evidence of the range of her talent, In Dreams, Oblivion, The Sphinx's Riddle, A Quatrain, Through the Heart of Maine, The Cry of the Human, Asleep, and the Swallow Song. A few years ago Birch Stream and Other Poems, a complete collection of her best poems, was published.

1997. Ellen Savage[8] Averill (George[7], John[6], Benjamin[5], Job[4], Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. July 17, 1852, at Alton, Me.; m. Oct., 1874, at Boston, Mass., Lewis B. Chase; they live at Woodburn, Ore.

Children:

i. Lewis Flint[9] Chase, b. July 13, 1876; m. ——— ———; d. Sept. 26, 1905, had one son, Kenyth.

ii. Addie Florence[9] Chase, b. Mar. 6, 1879; m. Mr. Cooley, has two children, Bernice and Alice.

iii. May[9] Chase, b. May 2, 1881; m. Mr. Hamilton, has two children, Marie and Perle.

iv. Ellen[9] Chase, b. Jan. 26, 1883; m. Mr. Commack; has two children, Clyde and Dorothy.

v. Fred[9] Chase, b. Dec. 8, 1888; d. Dec. 11, 1888.

vi. George Averill[9] Chase, b. Aug. 22, 1891.

Anna Boynton Averill (No. 1993).

1951. Anne Boynton[5] Averill (George[4], John[3], Benjamin[2], John[1], William[1]), born Minn., Feb. 26, 1843, is the object of [illegible] in the pages of our book. She is not only a [illegible] but by [illegible] and [illegible] she is possessed of many talents and charms of heart, mind and character. She is considered as brave as any naval warrior; and she is loved by those as only a one woman could. Her home is at Sunnyslope, a farm on the outskirts of Fremont, Mich., commanding views that must delight a poet's nature. There she works and writes, and when possible allows herself to dream of the realization of great visions.

We are indebted to her for the dedication poem to our common ancestor, the first in America, William Averell. In Poems of Places, edited by Henry W. Longfellow, we find that he—our [illegible] ancestor—gave place to Miss [illegible] Boynton [illegible] selected [illegible] Mr. Pole in the New England collection. He left behind him Jaggard on Torts, Jaggard on Taxation, Jaggard on Malicious Persecution, Jaggard on False Imprisonment, Jaggard on Historical Anomalies in the Law of Libel and Slander." He was generally admired, and at his death in Bermuda, Feb., 1911, the tributes to his memory were numerous. One of special interest was in the Baltimore Evening Sun, Feb. 18, by Henry Edward Warren. He said that Judge Jaggard might have had the Governorship of the state had he not preferred the Bench, and also that the American Bar Association sent him abroad to report on comparative law.

He was especially happy in his domestic life and in a host of friends always glad to be with him in his fishing trips or at his fireside. His wife survives him.

2239. Rev. Newell Augustus[8] Avery (Edward[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. June 30, 1847, at Prospect, Me., was educated at Bucksport and at Bates College, Lewiston, Me., and was grad. from Bates Theological School, now Cobb Divinity School, in 1880. He received a license to preach in 1874, and July 4, 1875, was ordained as minister in the Baptist Church at Islesboro, Me. He held one pastorate before taking his theological course, and one during the course. After graduation he settled first at Epsom, N. H., then in succession at Water Village and Ossipee; and in 1888 was called to Manchester, and in 1895 to Alton, N. H., at which time he was also chosen Chaplain of the New Hampshire Legislature. Illness forced him to discontinue his ministerial work for a time, but he has been since 1906 the Pastor of the Ashland Free Baptist Church, at Ashland, N. H. He was m. May 19, 1881, at Wells, Me., to Sarah Chase Goodwin (dau. of George Goodwin of Wells Branch, Me., and Hadessa Chase, his wife), b. June 27, 1847, at Wells. She was grad. from the Maine State Seminary, now Bates College, at Lewiston, Me., class of 1867; and as she had always been identified with the church work in which her parents were actively engaged, and especially her mother, she became a very valuable assistant to her husband in his life work, and in the special work of the Baptist Church.

Child:

3457. i. GEORGE GOODWIN[9], b. July 14, 1882, at Wells, Me., was drowned July 4, 1898, at Robert's Cove, Lake Winnipesaukee, near Alton, N. H.

2240. George Alden[8] Avery (Edward[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. May 2, 1849, at Prospect, Me., is a farmer, quarry owner and stone cutter, and lives at Prospect Ferry, Prospect, in the homestead of his father. He is one of the most respected men of the town; a man of scrupulous honesty and sincerity, very loyal to all his friends and faithful to all trusts. He m. Apr. 12, 1873, at Monroe, Me., Anna Gertrude Pierce (dau. of Augustus Pierce, who was b. at Salem, Mass., and lived at Prospect, Me., and of Mary Jane Hall of Long Island, Me., his wife). Mrs. Avery is a beautiful Christian woman, a noble wife and mother, and much loved by her friends.

Children (both b. at Prospect):

3458. i. LULU PIERCE[9], b. July 24, 1879, was educated at Bucksport, Me., and at Abbott Academy, Andover, Mass., from where she was graduated, class of 1902. She taught in the public schools of Winthrop, Me., from the autumn of 1902 until her marriage, Aug. 1, 1907, at her father's residence, to Edwin C. Clifford, Supt. of Public Schools for ten years at Winthrop, Me., where they now reside. Mr. Clifford has three children by a previous marriage.

3459. ii. EDWARD[9], b. July 30, 1886; m. Bertha Mae Pettee.

2241. Edward Franklin[8] Avery (Edward[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Jan. 11, 1851, at Prospect, Me., was trained to work in granite—his father's business. He was an unusually capable and efficient man in this line, doing thoroughly first class work. His splendid strength and accuracy in detail were noted among those who knew him. Ill health forced him to retire from such hard work during the last years of his life. He m. (1) Dec. 14, 1872, Mary P. Kallah (dau. of William F. Kallah of S. Thomaston, Me., and Ann Maria Hayden, his wife), b. May 30, 1854, at S. Thomaston, where they lived some years. She d. Sept. 12, 1884, at Vinalhaven, Me. He m. (2) Apr. 8, 1893, at Barre, Vt., Annie Ruth Brown, dau. of Philip Brown of Cornwallis, N. S., and Mary A. Hicks, his wife. They lived at Hallowell, Me. Mr. Avery d. May 14, 1910, in the home of his sister, Mrs. Goodwin, at Hallowell, Me.

Children (both b. at S. Thomaston):

3460. i. JOHN FREDERICK[9], b. Oct. 1, 1873; m. Mary Elizabeth Simmons.

3461. ii. JANE ELIZA[9], b. Sept. 22, 1877; m. Harold Edward Jackman.

2242. Byron Cousins[8] Avery (Edward[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Nov. 13, 1853, at Prospect, Me., m. there, Mar. 24, 1878, Almeda Harriman, dau. of Albert Harriman of Stockton and later of Prospect, Me., and Rebecca Ginn, his wife. Mrs. Avery comes from good old New England stock, and is one of the leaders in all good works done in Prospect; she is a faithful Christian, a good wife and mother and very highly esteemed. Mr. Avery kept a country store at Prospect Ferry, with his father-in-law, Mr. Harriman, and continued the business for a short time after Mr. Harriman's death. He was trained like all his father's sons, in granite cutting, a work in which he is now engaged. They reside at the old Harriman homestead at "The Ferry" on the west bank of the Penobscot, facing Bucksport, and close beside Fort Knox. When troops were last stationed at the Fort, during the Spanish American War, Mr. and Mrs. Avery with other townspeople were especially kind to those who were not well, and to the forlorn young men, who were homesick and ill under the first strain of hard physical labor in this unaccustomed service.

Children (all b. at Prospect Ferry):

3462. i. HERMAN[9], b. Oct. 3, 1879, was m. by Rev. Robert Sutcliffe, at Prospect Ferry, Sept. 18, 19—, to Rose Mudgett (dau. of ———— Mudgett and ———— ————, his wife). He is in the employment of the Union Iron Works of Bangor, Me., and lives at Brewer.

3463. ii. ALBERT EDWARD[9], b. Jan. 9, 1882.

3464. iii. EVELYN ROBERTS[9].

2243. Christiana Cousins[8] Avery (Edward[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Jan. 11, 1857, at Prospect, Me., lives at Hallowell, Me. She m. Apr. 19, 1878, at Bucksport, Me., Frederick Roscoe Goodwin, son of George Goodwin of Wells Branch, Me., and Hadassa Chase, his wife. Mrs. Goodwin's brother, Rev. Newell A. Avery, m. Mr. Goodwin's sister, so these two families are especially united. Mrs. Goodwin inherited the musical instincts of her family, and combined with her duties as wife and mother has been identified with church choirs, both as singer and organist, and has also taught music. Mr. Goodwin is a specialized granite worker at Hallowell. He is very fond of music, a fine vocalist, and has been a leading singer in Augusta and Hallowell churches for many years. As their children are also musical and all are interested in the annual music festivals now held in Maine, their home—a remarkably cheerful and happy one—is a center for music lovers.

Children (both b. at Vinal Haven, Me.):

i. HERBERT ROSCOE[9] GOODWIN, b. Jan. 5, 1879; was grad. at the Hallowell High School. He is one of the partners of a leading boot and shoe firm at Augusta, Me. He is also a leader in ch. choirs.

ii. Clara Avery[9] Goodwin, b. Sept. 20, 1882, was grad. at the Hallowell High School, class 1900, and sings with her father in the choir of the M. E. Ch. at Hallowell. She was m. Aug. 20, 1907, to Mr. Clarence Henry Turner, of Hallowell. Their dau. Margaret Christine Turner was b. July 4, 1909, and was bap. June 19, 1910.

2244. Edward Orlando[8] Avery (Newell[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Oct. 23, 1844, at Bradley, Me., was educated at the public schools of Port Huron, Mich., and entered Kalamazoo College, Mich., at the opening of the Civil War. The fever of patriotism spread so fast in this small college that it carried away very many of the students; and he, being also infected, enlisted there before he was eighteen. With his father's consent he remained in the army, serving in the Third Michigan Infantry in Co. H, as a non-commissioned officer, under Col. John Atkinson, from 1863 to the close of the War, and was associated in the service with many of his own town and college mates.

After the War he entered the lumber yards of Avery, Murphy and Co., at Chicago, Ill., where he remained a few years learning this business; he was then transferred to the lumber yards of Bodley, Avery and Co., at Toledo, Ohio, in which his father was interested, and in which he became a partner.

He was m. at Port Huron, Sept. 14, 1869, by Rev. James H. Hoyt, to Flora Thompson Huntington (dau. of Franklin Willis Huntington of Port Huron, formerly of Canton, N. Y., and Susan Maria Kingsbury, his wife), b. Jan. 27, 1846, at Canton (see Huntington Gens.). They resided for a time at Toledo, but soon removed to Alpena, Mich., where he became a partner in the firm of Richardson, Avery & Co., lumber manufacturers, in which his father, and Mr. Simon J. Murphy, his father's business associate, were partners. By mutual consent this partnership was dissolved in 1876, and Mr. Avery engaged in the lumber business at Alpena by himself, personally superintending all of his business. In 1881 he rebuilt a large saw mill located on the shore of Thunder Bay, and continued to operate this mill, one of the finest in the State, until his death, which occurred at the residence of his mother, Oct. 8, 1899, at Detroit, Mich. Mr. Avery owned some farms and fine stock and was very fond of farming, and especially noted for his Jersey herd of cattle, which was sacrificed to the tuberculosis craze.

He was a member of the Advisory Council on Farm Culture of the World's Fair Congress, which convened in Chicago in 1893.

His hospitality was noted, and his family enjoyed with him the pleasures and cares of entertaining throngs of friends at their summer home at Long Lake (now the Alpena Country Club), and at his other farms, where their guests had the best of hunting and fishing in their seasons.

Mr. Avery was a Republican, and active in the politics of his town and state, and at one time a nominee for Mayor. He was deeply interested in the development of his city and county, toward which he rendered active and practical aid. He was a member of the Grand Army of the Republic, a man of high standing, and charitable to an unusual degree in ways not made public.

His death occurred after a severe illness, and was pronounced "a public calamity." He was called "a man without an enemy; a citizen without blemish; the personal friend of everybody in town, and universally esteemed and respected by all who knew him."

Mrs. Avery is a woman of very gentle nature, deep affections, and is the most loyal of friends. She survives her husband and resides at Detroit, Mich., keeping a summer home, called Stony Ledge, on the Long Lake Farm.

The child of Orlando and Flora (Huntington) Avery was:

3465. i. Ruth Huntington[9], b. Nov. 6, 1872, at Alpena, Mich., the only child of her parents. She was grad. from the Alpena High School, and was a student at Miss Hersey's School at Boston, Mass. In 1894 she travelled abroad, and after her return became much interested in free kindergarten work in her own town. Later she took at Chicago the prescribed course of study for this line of work, and receiving her diploma, then engaged in the practical work of teaching little children in the Alpena Free Kindergarten Association. She was m. June 14, 1899, at her father's residence at Alpena, to Hon. Henry Killmaster Gustin (son of Richard P. Gus-tin of Bay City, Mich., formerly of London, Ont., and Rachel S. Killmaster, his wife), who was b. at Bay City, May 12, 1868. He was a student at the University of Michigan (Literary Dept.), 1886, 1888, and in the Law Dept. 1891, '92. He is a lawyer, and has been a member of the State Legislature from the Alpena District. On Oct. 25, 1899, four months after her marriage and two weeks after her father's death, Mrs. Gustin died very suddenly at her home in Alpena—a home, which, as a bride, she had barely entered. She was a beautiful young woman, of rare character, and especially beloved by all classes of people in her home town. At the time of her death she was President of the Alpena Free Kindergarten Association, with which she had closely identified herself for some years; and as a tribute to her memory, and a testimonial of love and esteem, the Association was renamed "The Ruth Avery Free Kindergarten Association."

2245. Darius Newell[8] Avery (Newell[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Jan. 10, 1846, at Bradley, Me., lived about twelve years at Port Huron, Mich., where he attended the public schools of that town.

He was at Kalamazoo College, Mich., during a part of the Civil War (1863-4), when the enlistment of his eldest brother (who was also a student there), and of many other students, so diminished the general zeal for study, and his in particular, that he did not continue his college course, but, though a mere youth, became at once an employee in his father's business. He was at this time especially fond of all sorts of out of door sports, and expert in all—hunting, fishing and skating, and was an especially fine marksman. Soon after attaining his majority, he and Charles H. Murphy, a son of his father's chief partner, were established in a business of their own in Michigan, under the name of Avery, Murphy and Sons; a few years later he became the partner of Col. George Fuller of Bangor, Me., later of Michigan, in a large lumbering business in the western part of that State, the firm name being Fuller and Avery. Their mills were at Muskegon where both lived for several years. Mr. Avery was therefore another of the fifth generation in direct line engaged in this business.

He m. June 24, 1873, at Bangor, Me., Elizabeth Holbrook Dole dau. of Charles E. Dole, Esq., of Bangor, and later of Portland, Me., and of Abigail Mariner, his wife. They resided first at Detroit and later at Muskegon, but in 1877, after the death of Mr. Avery's father, Mr. Newell Avery, they settled permanently at Detroit, where Mr. Avery as one of the executors of his father's estate devoted himself most unselfishly to its management, assisted by his younger brothers.

In the course of years his timber and lumber interests were extended into a few of the Southern States; and he also engaged in other lines of business. At the time of his death, which occurred at Detroit, May 2, 1899, he was one of the managers of the Newell Avery Estate, Vice Pres. of the Detroit, Belle Isle and Windsor Ferry Co., and Pres. of the Forest Lawn Cem. Co., of which he was an original incorporator.

He was an officer or director in several other organizations, a member of the Detroit Commandery of Knights Templar, and a director of the Old Club (Lake), St. Clair Flats, one of the oldest and most popular fishing and shooting clubs near Detroit, and in which he took great pleasure. His advice was often sought in the business affairs and in the adjustment of the business perplexities of his friends, as he was an eminently just and conciliatory man. He was a very loyal and generous friend, and "a good type of sturdy American manhood."

Mrs. Avery survives her husband, but has no permanent residence. She has a striking resemblance to her father, both physically and mentally, and inherited from him a great love of nature and of poetry, and also a ready wit. She is naturally very gifted, like many other members of her family, and is very domestic in her tastes.

2248. Nancy Margaret[8] Avery (Newell[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. May 16, 1852, at Bradley, Me., passed most of her life at Detroit, Mich. She was educated there at the Detroit Seminary, and studied music in Boston. She m. Oct. 15, 1879, at St. Peter and Paul's Church, Detroit, Henry Whipple Skinner, son of Edwin Adolphus Skinner of Detroit and Catherine Sophia Whipple, his wife, who was the dau. of Maj. John and Archange (Peletier) Whipple. Mr. Skinner* was b. at Detroit, June 8, 1852, and was educated there and at Harvard University, where he was a student (Law School, 1888-91). He was a member of the Harvard Hasty Pudding Club and Colonial Club of Cambridge. He is a member of the University Club of Detroit, and of most of our so called "patriotic" societies. Mr. and Mrs. Skinner were very musical, very domestic, very simple and congenial in their tastes and devoted to their families and immediate friends. She was a gentle and affectionate woman with the nature of a little child. She d. at Detroit, Aug. 24, 1884.

The children of Henry Whipple and Nancy (Avery) Skinner were:

i. (Infant Dau.)[9] Skinner, b. and d. Oct. 5, 1880, at Detroit.
ii. Joseph M.[9] Skinner, b. and d. Aug. 23, 1884, at Detroit.

MEMORANDA.

* Mr. Skinner m. (2) Miss Henrietta Channing Dana, dau. of Richard Henry Dana and Sarah Watson, his wife, of Cambridge, Mass. They have one son, Richard Dana Skinner, b. Apr. 21, 1893. He entered Harvard in 1911.

2249. George Edwin[8] Avery (Newell[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Apr. 18, 1854, at Port Huron, Mich., lived nearly all his life at Detroit, Mich. He was educated at the Detroit public schools, and at Olivet College, Mich. He was m. at Detroit, May 8, 1878, by Rev. Zachary Eddy, D. D., to Fannie Elida Tarbell, dau. of George Saunders Tarbell of Detroit, formerly of Bromfield, Mass., and Albany, N. Y., and of Frances Barker, his wife. She is a very domestic woman, with gentle manners, and very youthful in appearance. He was President of the Detroit, Belle Isle and Windsor Ferry Co., of the Forest Lawn Association and a director of other organizations. For many years he served as a City Commissioner on the Board of the Detroit House of Correction, being President several times. This was his only public office. This reformatory is one of the most noted institutions of the kind in America, and during the time of his service was a great financial success. Mr. Avery was a Republican in politics; a member of the Detroit Club, and of the Old Club at St. Clair Flats.

He was essentially a man's man, with a genial spirit, a very keen and original sense of humor, and had a large circle of devoted friends. He d. Tuesday evening, Nov. 15, 1910, at his residence, 50 Selden Ave., surrounded by his family and his brothers and sisters. His aged and devoted mother survived him to her great sorrow.

Children:

3466. i. Bessie Tarbell[9], b. Mar. 21, 1879, at Detroit; m. Sherman Miller McFedries.

3467. ii. Newell[9], b. Dec. 6, 1881; drowned June 12, 1897.

3468. iii. George Edwin Jr.[9], b. Oct. 25, 1884; m. Elizabeth Bird.

2250. John Herbert[8] Avery (Newell[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. July 29, 1855, at Bradley, Me., where the family had returned for a visit, was educated at the Detroit public schools and at the University of Michigan, from which he graduated in the Pharmacy Dept. in 1877. He continued his studies in chemistry at the Mass. Institute of Technology until forced from ill health to retire. He then followed in the foot-steps of his ancestors, obtaining his training in the lumber business in the firm of Eddy, Avery and Eddy at Bay City, Mich. While in business there he was m. by Rev. Moses Freeland (?), Jan. 8, 1880, at Detroit, to Ella Smith, dau. of William L. Smith, Esq., a prominent business man of Detroit and Flint, and of Anna Olcott, his wife. The marriage took place at the residence of Mr. Smith. Mrs. Avery was educated at Flint and at Wellesley College, Mass. She is a woman of keen intellect and great energy, and is considered very handsome and attractive. She is very devoted to her family and friends, and is a Colonial Dame and Daughter of the American Revolution. At present she is deeply interested in agriculture, having a fine farm at Oxford, Oakland Co., Mich.

Mr. Avery has been one of the managers of his father's estate, director and officer of the Belle Isle and Windsor Ferry Co., of the Forest Lawn Ass'n, and many other business firms, and an officer of many organizations. He is a Republican in politics, a Son of the American Revolution, a member of Sons of Colonial Wars, and of the Yondatega, Detroit and Grosse Point Country Clubs.

Children:

3469. i. FLORENCE OLCOTT[9], b. Feb. 20, 1881, at Bay City, Mich.; was educated at the Home and Day School, Detroit, Dana Hall, and at Smith College, Mass. She has studied music at home and abroad and has travelled extensively.

3470. ii. KENNETH NEWELL[9], b. Nov. 20, 1882; m. Nancy (Gilcrest) Quereau.

3471. iii. HELEN[9], b. Aug. 5, 1884, at Detroit; d. there, May 1, 1889.

3472. iv. CAROLYN[9], b. Oct. 10, 1893, at Detroit; d. there, Dec. 12, 1896.

3473. v. CLARA ELIZABETH[9], b. Aug. 10, 1895, at Detroit, has been educated in private schools in Detroit and at Westover, Conn.

2251. Horace Waters[8] Avery (Newell[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Apr. 12, 1857, at Port Huron, Mich., was named after his father's cousin, Horace Waters of New York City. He removed to Detroit, Mich., with his parents in 1866, and was educated at the public schools of that city, and at the Penn. Military Academy at Chester, Pa., where he passed two years, 1877-79. He was in Europe and Egypt in 1879-80, and was m. Apr. 21, 1880, at Madison, Wis., to Lu Ella West (dau. of Augustus Henry West of Madison, formerly of Detroit, and Henrietta Hume, his wife), b. May 20, 1862.

Mr. Avery was for some time an officer in the Detroit, Belle Isle and Windsor Ferry Co., and later engaged in business in Chicago, when he became seriously ill and was obliged to give up all business. In the endeavor to recover health for himself and family he decided on an out of door life, and to this end (which was attained) he purchased a gasoline launch, named it after his wife, "Lu Ella," and from 1902 to 1910, spent a great deal of time cruising on the inland water ways of the United States. On these trips their winters were passed in the South, and their summers in the North; on one occasion a trip was made from the Gulf to St. Paul and back. The "Lu Ella" once voyaged from Detroit across Lakes Erie and Ontario, down the St. Lawrence River, through Lake Champlain to the Hudson River and New York; crossing New York harbor they passed through the Raritan River, Bay, and Canal, to the Delaware, and down to Philadelphia. The "Lu Ella" was then shipped to Pittsburg and the trip continued down the Ohio and Mississippi to the Gulf. This launch has made more than 100,000 miles in cruising. Much time was devoted to the Louisiana bayous and canals made famous by Longfellow's poem, Evangeline.

Mr. and Mrs. Avery are still wanderers, but not on the "Lu Ella"; and he has quite a reputation as a raconteur of Canadian French and of Negro stories.

The children of Horace Waters and Lu Ella (West) Avery are:

3474. i. Llewellyn West[9], b. Dec. 18, 1881, at Detroit; m. Annette C. Voris.

3475. ii. Horace Waters, Jr.[9], b. Sept. 9, 1887, at Detroit; has attended the public and private schools of Grosse Isle and Detroit, and also a Business College. He has received Government and State licenses for Mississippi River navigation, and has familiarized himself with the construction of the Packard automobiles, and is at present with an automobile company in Detroit.

2252. Nellie[8] Avery (Newell[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Apr. 29, 1860, at Port Huron, Mich., lived until her marriage at Detroit, Mich. She was at Miss Bryan's School at Batavia, N. Y., and at Smith College, Mass., 1878-80. She has travelled extensively in Europe and in America. She was m. July 2, 1884, at the family residence in Detroit, by Rev. Zachary Eddy, D. D., to Walter Wheaton Augur, son of Brevet Major General Christopher C. Augur, U. S. A., and Jane Elizabeth Arnold, his wife, who was the dau. of Gen. Jacob Arnold. Mr. Augur was b. Feb. 5, 1858, at Fort Hoskins, Ore., a military out-post established by his father when Captain in the 4th Inf. (see The Augur Family, 1904). He was grad. from the University of Mich. (Literary Dept.), 1878, with the degree of B. A., and from the Law Dept., 1881, with the degree of LL. B. The same year he entered the office of Lawrence, Campbell and Lawrence, eminent attorneys of Chicago, Ill., and was admitted to practise law in Illinois the same year. He was later one of the members of the firm of Jameson, Marston and Augur, which, after the death of Judge Jameson, became Marston, Augur and Tuttle. At the time of his death he was not associated with any firm, although he retained his offices in the Tacoma Building, Chicago, with his former partners. His death occurred Apr. 22, 1905, after two years of very trying illness. The tributes to his character, ability and worth by his intimate friends and associates are a rich heritage to his family.

Mr. Augur was a member of the University and other clubs, and an officer in all of them at some time during his membership. He was a man of fine presence, mind and tastes, in many qualities resembling his father, Gen. Augur.

Mrs. Augur resembles many Avery-Averell women of the Maine and New York branches of this large family, being above the average in stature, well proportioned, unusually erect, and with a dignified carriage. She is fair in coloring, sanguine in temperament, has a bright mind and ready wit, and is as devoted to her friends as they are to her. She is a member of the Chicago "Friday Club," and other literary, artistic and charitable organizations. With similar tastes, great fondness for music and literature, Mr. and Mrs. Augur had an unusually attractive home life, and drew around them a small but united and congenial group of friends. Mrs. Augur, after having travelled extensively, has again settled in Chicago and is living at 46 Cedar Street.

Children (all but one b. at Chicago) :

i. MARGARET AVERY[9] AUGUR, b. Apr. 18, 1885, at Evanston Ill., was grad. with honors from Rosemary Hall, Greenwich, Conn., 1903, and entered Bryn Mawr the same year. She was pres. of her class two years, 1903-5. Through ill health she was unable to finish her course at Bryn Mawr, but studied for a time in Paris, and was graduated from Barnard College, Columbia University, with the degree of A. B. in 1912.

ii. WHEATON[9] AUGUR, b. July 18, 1888; was grad. from The Hill School, Pottstown, Pa., 1905, and entered Yale the same year, class 1909 (Literary), grad. with his class. He studied law at Harvard, grad. 1912; was a member of the Review from the first year. He received the honorable mention of Cum Laude at graduation. He entered the office of Lincoln, Isham and Beale of Chicago, the same year.

iii. Ellen Adair[9] Augur, b. Dec. 8, 1891; was educated at private schools in Chicago and at Rosemary Hall, Conn. She has studied music in New York.

iv. Newell Avery[9] Augur, b. Dec. 2, 1897; entered the Hotchkiss School in 1911.

2257. Benjamin Weeks[8] Avery (Judson[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Aug. 9, 1844, at Jefferson, Me., was one of a family who for three generations have occupied the old Avery homestead in that town. He was a good farmer, a good citizen and most highly esteemed. He was noble both in character and appearance; had an unusually fine head, regular features, dark blue eyes and dark hair. He was uniformly kind in disposition and very gentle and quiet in manners. He was m. May 11, 1869, at Jefferson, by Rev. Wm. Tilley, to Rosa Frances Glidden (dau. of Alexander Glidden of Jefferson and Hannah Weeks, his wife), b. Feb. 3, 1845, at Jefferson. He d. Feb. 16, 1900, at the old homestead, and Mrs. Avery d. Dec. 6, 1909.

Children (both b. at Jefferson):

MEMORANDUM.

* Ruth Weeks was the dau. of Benjamin Weeks of Jefferson and own cousin of Mrs. Rosa (Glidden) Avery, wife of Benjamin Weeks Avery.

2260. Waldo Allard[8] Avery (Sewell[7], Enoch[6], Enoch[5], Israel[4] Averell, Job[3], William[2], William[1]), b. May 14, 1850, at Bradley, Me., is a lumberman, and a large timber owner in connection with his extensive lumbering interests. He is also one of the five generations in lineal descent engaged in lumbering with his own mills and timber lands. He has lived at Port Huron and East Saginaw, now called Saginaw, Mich., but has resided for many years at Detroit, Mich., which is still the center of his business interests; but his permanent and country residence is at Grosse Point Farm, near Detroit. He m. (1) Feb. 18, 1872, at Detroit, Ellen C. Lee (dau. of Charles Lee of E. Saginaw, Mich., and Ellen Sterritt, his wife), b. Feb. 23, 1849, at Leesville, Mich. July 15, 1867, in the island of Lewis, one of the Hebrides, Scotland.

Mr. Avery is a very prosperous and highly esteemed business man in the middle West, and he has learned, like many men of his generation, how to take and enjoy leisure in spite of large business interests. He has been President of the American Exchange National Bank of Detroit, is Vice President and Director of the Second National Bank of Saginaw (which stands first in Michigan, according to the Michigan Blue Book of Banks), is a partner in the Richardson & Avery Lumber and Timber Lands Co., Hawgood & Avery (Marine) Transit Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, and in the United States Gypsum Co. of Chicago, Ill. He owns half of the large Majestic, an office building on one of the principal sites in Detroit, and has many other interests. He is a member of several clubs and very fond of out-door sports, and is also an extensive traveller. As the only son of his father he became the chief executor of his father's estate; and his fidelity to this and other trusts has won him additional regard.

She had a very happy home life, was educated at schools in Massachusetts, and in a convent in Maine, and is a cultivated and interesting woman of unusually fine nature. She was m. Jan. 21, 1896, at North Whitefield, Me., to her cousin, Judge Oscar Avery Marden, son of Stephen P. Marden and Julia Avery (No. 1180), his wife (see p. 684). Mr. Marden was educated at Westbrook Seminary, Westbrook, Me., and at Boston University Law School, where he received the degree of LL. B. in 1876. He has had a law office in Boston, Mass., since 1876, and also one in Stoughton, Mass., but he and Mrs. Marden have resided since August, 1877, at Stoughton, passing the winters only since 1902 in Boston. He was appointed a trial Justice in 1877 and heard cases in that capacity until 1890, when the District Court of Southern Norfolk was created by the Legislature, its district embracing the four towns of Stoughton, Canton, Sharon, and Avon. Mr. Marden was appointed Judge of this Court, which office he still holds. He has been a "Visitor" to Boston University Law School, and President of its alumni, President of the Norfolk Bar Association, of which he is a charter member, and he has also served on school committees for 17 years. In the Odd Fellows and the Masons he has held high offices. He was Grand Patriarch of the Encampment in Massachusetts in 1893, and has gone as Grand Representative from that State to the conventions at Atlanta and Indianapolis. In the Masons he is Past Master of Rising Star Lodge and a Past District Deputy Grand Master. He also belongs to the Chapter and Council. Judge and Mrs. Marden are members of the Universalist Church, and influential in that Society. They have travelled extensively at home and abroad, and have a wide circle of friends. (For the only son of Judge Marden,—Edgar Avery Marden,—see p. 687.)

2669. Hon. Heman Otis[8] Averill (Samuel[7], Samuel[6], Perry[5], Samuel[4], Isaac[3], William[2], William[1]), b. Aug. 20, 1856, at New Preston, in the Town of Washington, Conn., is an influential citizen and farmer in his native town, and lives on the farm purchased by his ancestor Samuel Averill in 1746, and which he has appropriately named "The Averill Homestead." As Isaac spent the last years of his life with his son Samuel, it follows that Heman Averill's children are the seventh generation of Averills that have lived on the old farm. This farm has become a model in Litchfield County, and his son, Mr. Ralph J. Averill, is now manager of it for his father. Mr. Averill was educated at Waramaug Academy, New Preston, Conn., and at Oberlin College, Ohio, although not graduated from the latter. He has held many offices of his own town. He has been Judge of Probate since 1898 for the District of Washington, and his name since the first election has been on the ticket of both parties. He represented the Town of Washington in the lower branch of the General Assembly in 1891, and the 20th Senatorial District in the Senate of 1895; was Paymaster General on Gov. Geo. E. Lounsbury's staff, and is now serving his fourteenth year as Commissioner on Domestic Animals for the State. He was Director for Litchfield County in the Connecticut Dairyman's Association from Jan., 1900, to Jan., 1908, when he resigned and was succeeded by his son, Ralph. He is President of The Washington Supply Co., Inc., at Washington Depot, dealers in hardware, lumber, coal, grain, feed, etc., and a Director in The Washington Mutual Fire Insurance Co. In politics he is a Republican. Gen. Averill is also a Past Master of Washington Grange No. 11, P. of H. of Excelsior Pomona Grange No. 7, and of Rising Sun Lodge No. 27, F. and A. M.

He m. Oct. 20, 1881, at Marble Dale, Conn., Bertha W. Buckingham (dau. of Ralph Buckingham and Elvira Wheaton, his wife), b. Nov. 24, 1859, at New Milford, Conn. In their old stone mansion, built in 1831, is a large and promising family of children; and here lived the beloved grandmother, Betsey (Johnson) Averill, who d. at the old home Jan. 16, 1891, aged 104 years less four months, surrounded by the love and attention of her descendants to the fourth generation, and respected and honored by a wide circle of friends and acquaintances.

Mr. Averill cheriches the original deed, dated April 25, 1746, which he holds in his possession, and which is perfectly legible to this day, that conveyed the land he now occupies to his grandfather's grandfather, Samuel Averill. The following are abstracts from an extended notice of the farm which appeared in a Connecticut paper several years ago:

"It would be difficult to find in the whole state of Connecticut a homestead and farm more beautiful, more historic and yet more modern than that of (Gen.) Heman O. Averill. . . . . This handsome old place stands in the middle of a high plateau 1000 feet above the level of the sea. It is situated about three miles from Washington, and is a little over twelve miles from the town of Litchfield, which is the county seat.

"The land on which the Averill Homestead is built was originally a part of the great Waramaug Reserve which was owned and ruled over by the famous old Indian chief, Waramaug. . . . . At the time Samuel Averill (No. 88) purchased the land Litchfield was unknown, but the two chief counties were Hartford, the northern portion of the state, and New Haven, the Southern.

"Soon after purchasing the farm, Samuel Averill erected near the center of his land a large house which he occupied with his father, Isaac Averill. Until the year 1831 this house stood; but during that year the present homestead was built. . . . . The stones were taken from the farm; the timbers of the house, wainscotings, floorings and finishings were made by hand, and many of the timbers were hewn from solid oak. . . . . This Homestead has passed from father to son since it was founded; the occupants in order were Samuel (No. 88), Col. Perry Averill (No. 250), Samuel (No. 604), Samuel Johnson (No. 1424), the present occupant, Heman Otis Averill (No. 2669). This farm is located at the top of what is locally known as Baldwin Hill. The house stands in the center of a large plateau and the farm forms a large circle about the dwelling. . . . . The view of valleys, hills and the mountain range is very beautiful, and the clear, sweet air which lends vigor to body and mind has had much to do with the growing up of the sturdy and upright race of men who from generation to generation have occupied the old homestead.

"The house is quaint and rambling in construction. In it are many odd corners, windings of hall and stairway, steps down and steps up, such as are found in all old houses. The rooms are large and airy, with high ceilings and carved woodwork. Each room has its quaint and valuable pieces of furniture, many of them 200 years old; a remarkably handsome high-boy of solid mahogany is among them; also many low-boys, old chairs, secretaries, spinning wheels, and carpet looms, all handmade, without the use of nails. A fine old mahogany Hepplewhite sideboard, an artistic corner cupboard, and a handsome collection of old china and pewter are among the treasures of the house.

"The farm is one of the most fertile and productive in the region; the meadows clean, level and well kept—the yield unusual and there is woodland sufficient to supply fuel for years to come. The stables are planned to give fresh air and sunshine to horses and cattle; their floors are of cement, and large buckets with running water are where the cattle may drink when they wish. A herd of 50 cows occupy one barn, among them some finely bred Ayreshires. All the barns and yards are supplied with clear, cold, running water. It is certainly a modern and quite up-to-date farm."

Mr. Averill holds his father's excellent collection of Averill data in MS., and he generously allowed the compiler of this history the use of all the records, parts of which have been embodied in this work. They related almost wholly to the family of Isaac, with early copies of Ipswich and Topsfield, Mass., records; but they are of great value and assistance in the compilation of this history. They contain:—

(1) Horace Averill's Records of Ancestors and Relations 1820;

(2) Samuel Johnson Averill's Averill Record, "prepared April 1853" gathered from 1845 to '53;

(3) Samuel Johnson Averill's revision of the Averill Record of 1853, with additions to 1887;
(4) The MS. of E. O. Jameson, 1885;
(5) A Record by Samuel J., prepared after 1885.

Mrs. Averill is a very domestic woman, with gracious manners, and interesting personality, tall, slender, and dark. She is a mother of the New England type which all Americans honor. The family of Hon. and Mrs. Heman Otis Averill is as follows:

In Charleston he will always be remembered as a competent, courteous business man. From the first inception of the present (1902) Exposition he was an indefatigable and enthusiastic worker as sec. to his father, Director Gen., J. H. Averell. . . . . There is little doubt but that his conscientious devotion to this work undermined his constitution and was partly responsible for the illness (appendicitis) which terminated fatally" (May 13, 1902, at St. Francis Xavier Infirmary). "Mr. Averell was 25 yrs. old and was private sec. to Gen. MacArthur for a year in the Philippines, and during this time acquainted himself with the language, customs and needs of the natives in a way that won him the highest commendation of the military officers. When the Boxer troubles developed in China, and the U. S. troops were ordered to the Celestial Empire, Mr. Averell was still with the military officers in command, acting as sec. in the memorable approach to Tien Tsin. Finding the climate was not beneficial, he returned to his own city, Charleston." (News Courier.) He enlisted during the Spanish-American War, as private in the 1st. Regt., Tenn. Vols., Co. A., and went to Manila. He was some time at Iloilo, and then at Cuba, before returning home. Flags were placed at half mast before the Exposition and over the Administration Building at the time of his death, as a fitting tribute to one who had given not only to that work, but also to his city, state and country his best services.

Mr. Averill is a member and was for many years chairman of the Republican Town Committee of Branford, and is "a firm believer in the principles and record of the Republican party."

For fifteen years he was a member and clerk of the Board of Education. In 1900 he was elected by the Republicans of Branford a member of the Legislature of Connecticut for 1901, and appointed clerk of the Committee on Claims and also of that on Expositions. In 1905 he was re-elected to the Legislature and appointed chairman of the Committee on Agriculture, and he was also elected President of the Farmers' Association, which is considered a powerful organization in the State.

Mr. Averill is deeply interested in the family history, and has furnished most of the data relative to Daniel, Jr., and his descendants—that is, of the Branford branch of our family.

Aug. 31, 1909, at London, Eng., to Dwight Raymond Meigs (son of Prof. John Meigs of Pottstown, Pa.), grad. from Yale, (1907), and studied at Oxford, 1908-9. They have 1 child, Helen Averell[11] Meigs.

3038. Mary Williamson[9] Averell (William John[8], James[7], James[6], James[5], William[4], William[3], William[2], William[1]), b. July 22, 1851, at New York City, passed most of her youth in Ogdensburg and Rochester, N. Y. She was m. at Ogdensburg, Sept. 10, 1879, to Edward Henry Harriman (son of Orlando Harriman of New York City, and of Cornelia Neilson, his wife), b. Feb. 25, 1848, at Hampstead, Long Island, N. Y.

The branch of the family to which Mrs. Harriman belongs is one of the most prominent and best known,—the Cooperstown Averell branch. It is almost the only one which has retained what some of us believe is the original spelling of the name: Averell. Mrs. Harriman has the fine presence and mentality which are characteristic of a number of the women of our stock, though her ability is regarded as very unusual.

Mr. Harriman, who died Sept. 9, 1909, at his home, Arden House, Arden, N. Y., was one of the remarkable financiers of our day, and was especially prominent in railway interests. He was considered a man of Napoleonic mental power; one of the great leaders in railway engineering and operation in America. The building up by him of the old Union Pacific Railroad into its present modern system has been mentioned as one of the most remarkable evidences of constructive genius of our day.

His life and its many great responsibilities and successes are too well known to require more than a brief mention in such a work as this. His gift of Arden Park to the State of New York is a fitting memorial to such a life.

Mrs. Harriman's places of residence are at Arden and New York City.

The children of Edward H. and Mary W. (Averell) Harriman are:

The Editor takes pleasure in acknowledging here the indefatigable efforts of Mrs. Averill to secure data of the Barre branch of the Averills. Her assistance has been of great value. Since Mr. and Mrs. Averill settled at Barre, they have never changed their place of residence. They are excellent representatives of that type of New England farmers of which people of New England birth are always proud. Mr. Averill is a prosperous farmer, his credit is always good where he is known; his word as good as his note, and his honesty unquestioned.

NEW YORK IN THE REVOLUTION AS COLONY AND STATE

BY JAMES A. ROBERTS, COMPTROLLER.

"The Line — Additional Corps (Green Mountain Boys)

'(These muster rolls are recorded as "Major Brown's Detachment", and that detachment is mentioned as in "General Arnold's Regiment" (the only mention of General Arnold found in our records). The fact that the Green Mountain Boys were at Quebec in 1776; that this detachment was also at Quebec in 1776; that two of the officers on these rolls — Captain and Commissary Elijah Babcock and Captain Robert Cochran — are identical in name and rank with those on a list handed to the Provincial Congress of New York by Ethan Allen and Seth Warner on July 4, 1775, as officers for the Green Mountain Boys; and the further fact that none of the men are recorded in any other place or with any other organization; all confirms the belief that the soldiers on its rolls herewith were a part of that historic band. (See V. 178 of H. Stevens' papers).)' NO. IN GENEALOGY.

In searching for those who bear the name Averell, Averill or Avery, it will often be necessary to look under all three variants before finding the persons desired.

After the names of all descendants of William[1] Averell the generation number has been added; in the case of those bearing the Family name the genealogical number (in parenthesis) also has been given.

The maiden name of married women is shown in parenthesis.

It frequently happens that many members of the Family bear the same Christian name. To avoid confusion resulting from this fact, it has been deemed expedient for identification to give in several instances the name of the father and even, in rare cases, that of the grandfather.
